About / Who am I?

Holly Jean Jackson

I am Holly Jean Jackson, Holistic Business Coach, Speaker, Podcast Host, Author, and founder of Business Builder Throw Down. My career spans from technology to communications as well as organizational change, public relations and content strategy. I have dedicated over 12 years helping business leaders get their groove back physically, mentally and emotionally. I led a Local to Global Policy Initiative to influence future leaders' impact on communities. In my Transformational Coaching Method, I take a holistic and logistical approach to success. After all, one can't have massive success in business without a life of equal or greater success.

“ Take action that matches the size of your dreams.”

Unique Perspective

Helping Business Owners Achieve Real Success

Most are taking action but not on the roadmap to success and nothing is changing. Some take action but fail to ask for the sale and are not converting solid leads into clients. Many see the rewards of running your own business are enticing, but the road to becoming a successful entrepreneur can be the biggest challenge you'll ever face. Business owners hire me to master the art and science of real success because most lack direction, action, and results. So, I help define and design a business roadmap for impactful visibility, intentional profitability, and endless sustainability.
